WELCOME TO THE SHOW

Hello!

My name is Matt Kundler and it is my pleasure to welcome you to this Austin Brass Collective concert! Whether this is your first or fifteenth ABC show, I can't thank you enough for supporting our effort to keep Austin brassy!

It's hard to believe that we started our third season this Fall, but I'm sure it'll be our most memorable yet. Between our youth ensemble program, competitions, and concerts, my goal is for ABC to continue to grow as an important musical companion for our city and everyone in it.

Whether it's a tender scene from a movie, a triumphant moment from a video game, or a song you sing with loved ones, music is there to accompany the important moments in our lives, and I hope the Austin Brass Collective can accompany you in your adventures!

DR. CAROLINE BEATTY,

GUEST VOCALIST

As Director of Bands and Professor of Music at Texas State University, Caroline Beatty conducts the Texas State Wind Symphony, leads the graduate wind band conducting program, teaches conducting and band literature courses, and provides primary oversight for the comprehensive band program.

Performances under her direction garner consistent accolades from audience members, composers, and fellow performers for their artistry, excitement, and craft. While honoring the standard repertoire, Dr. Beatty actively invests in the commissioning and performance of new works. Recently, the Texas State Bands Centennial Music Project fostered compositions by six TXST-connected composers to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the bands at the university. Other recent premiere performances include music by Giovanni Santos, Michael Daugherty, Cynthia Van Maanen, Theresa Martin, and Margaret Brouwer, among others. The Wind Symphony has been recognized for musical excellence through invitations to perform for the National Conference of the College Band Directors National Association, the Southwestern Division of CBDNA, and the Texas Music Educators Association.

Dr. Beatty maintains a vibrant conducting and teaching schedule outside of the university. Recent international engagements include leading the Summer Conducting School for the Australia Band and Orchestra Directors Association-Victoria as well as the serving as Chief Clinician for the Victoria School Music Festival where she enjoyed connecting with over 80 Australian school bands.
